Big Crowd Attends Picnic

One hundred and ninety car and eleven hundred and twenty-two people attended the community picnic given by the Didsbury business-men yesterday. Considering the condition of the country roads this was a far greater crowd than anticipated and shows that the picnic is very popular with the people of the district.

The kiddies had a great time and there was no lack of entries in the races. The free ice cream booth was a very popular place and four men were kept busy all afternoon handing out cones to the kiddies. Over 2,500 cones were handed out.

Six teams were entered in the softball tournament and Melvin were the winners over Didsbury Toffs, the final with a score of 2-1. In the girls softball game the Country Clowns made an easy win over Olds by 18-10.

Bill McFarquhar's and Jack Topley's coconut shy was a big attraction and at the finish there were two cocoanuts left and the boys were going strong after them.

Westerdale Council Reduces Taxes

Increase in Exhibits Expected Good Race Program Assured

According to the secretary of the Agricultural Society there will be an increase in the number of exhibits to be shown at the Didsbury Fair on July 28th and 29th. Practically all the old exhibitors have expressed their intentions of bringing in stock for exhibition and many new exhibitors are expected to make entries.

The horse racing promises to be equal to anything in the past and there will be horses enough to make every event interesting.

In the harness race Burrell will have two entries, Wiggins two and Sinclair one and there are possibilities of other horses being entered.

For the running events Messrs. Morrison, of Airdrie and Haven, of Crossfield will have a string of horses here and Fullerton and Wiggins will have local entries. While definite information has not yet been received, it is expected that several horses will be here from the north.

Didsbury no doubt will live up to its reputation and again have the best fair of its class in the province.

Stop! Look! Listen!

Cheap grain causes you to want to hold your wheat, "cats especially," barley and rye.

If you deliver this to the elevator in your home-town they charge you, after the first 15 days, one cent per bushel per month, or $10.00 on 1,000 bushels every 30 days. Five months means $50.00; six months $60.00; eight months $80.00, or from the time you thresh in October till May in the next year it means $80.00 cost to you.

Now a granary 12x14 and 8 ft. high, with skids and shingled roof will cost you now from $50.00 to $70.00 and will hold from 1,200 to 1,300 bushels of wheat

NOW is the time to start building and be prepared for your grain before threshing time. Call and see us and we will give you all figures and help you get a granary that won't cost you a dollar.

Spirit Of Nationalism Is Largely Responsible For World Depression Says Sir George Paish

Sir George Paish, formerly editor of the London Statist and one of Great Britain's most distinguished economists, is in the United States holding conferences with leading statesmen, business men, and bankers. He sets forth in an interview in Barron's Weekly his views as to the causes for and the remedies to be applied in curing the business depression now prevailing in this country and the world at large. He is genuinely alarmed over the outlook, says the Manitoba Free Press, and states that the spirit of nationalism in the United States and Europe is responsible for the depression and that it is forcing the world into bankruptcy. In his interview he says:

"Without desiring to be severe, I am compelled by the facts of the situation to state, and to state definitely, that the spirit of nationalism in the United States is in no small degree responsible for world trade depression, as well as for the depression in the United States, and that unless this spirit is changed, both in the United States and in other countries, from that of nationalism to what I may term universalism, that is, the spirit which promotes a policy beneficial to all nations, any remedy of the present situation cannot be found.

"The distress in which all nations find themselves today must inevitably increase until there is a real danger of both a trade and a credit breakdown. The policy that is being pursued, not only in America but also in Europe and in other countries, is forcing the world into bankruptcy and financial ruin. It is impossible to survey the political conditions now prevailing in the world without a feeling of great anxiety. Already many revolutions have taken place in South America and a good many in Europe, and others will undoubtedly take place if this policy is persisted in.

"The remedy is not an effort to be more self-contained, not an effort by each nation to do without the rest of the world, but an increasing effort towards co-operation with other nations in the interest of the common well-being.

"Possibly in ancient times there was something to be said for the policy now being pursued when the racial spirit was so strong and nations were in process of formation; but in these days, when the world has become a single unit and each nation has for a very considerable period been bringing its contribution to the common well-being, it is not only folly but also criminal for nations to seek to go back to the policy that was suitable to primitive conditions. If pursued in, it will bring us to a condition of distress without parallel.

"The only possible policy that will carry the nations out of their present troubles into a new and greater spirit of prosperity is a policy of collaboration and co-operation, which will make the whole world still more efficient as an economic unit, which will expand the productive power of all countries, which will expand the trade of all countries, and which will bring universal prosperity.

"The effort to go back to the old conditions has already brought great suffering, and the continuance of this effort will intensify this suffering in a manner that no reasonable being desires to contemplate.

"The immediate outlook is most disturbing, and it is evident that constructive measures for the rehabilitation of the prosperity of all nations must be taken without delay if disaster is to be averted."

Ship Model Breasts Man-Made Wind and Wave

Ingenious Tank Experiments Made With New Cunarder Model

In an effort to make the new super-Cunarder as near fool-proof as human ingenuity and modern marine science can make her, the most extraordinary preliminary tests have just been completed with an exact replica model of the ship.

These tests made with the utmost care were performed with an 18-foot model in a 300-foot tank in which miniature gales and heavy seas were mechanically created to reproduce actual conditions on the Atlantic which the great liner will have to face at all seasons of the year. These tank trials are a combination of years of minute experiments made with models. The designers are convinced that the new ship will prove to be the most perfect vessel possible for the work she is intended to perform.

The tank-wave-making apparatus consists of a driving diaphragm or wood diaphragm set at sharp angles and plates. This is mounted on what might be called the stepping end of the tank, and end towards which the models run in the experiments. The rocking-point of the diaphragm is placed two feet below the water level of the tank and the rocking is caused by a driving-gear through a flywheel and long connecting rod.

Variations in the motion of the diaphragm govern the number of waves generated, their length and speed. The waves travel steadily and uniformly along the whole length of the tank with crest to square to it, and through which the model passes in the opposite direction to each experiment. The capacity of the engine permits a reproduction to scale of storm conditions, of wave-length and height in the North Atlantic corresponding to a gale of about 60 knots. The sea condition of the ship which is represented by these experiments in artificial ways, is that of steaming against a very regular head-on sea.

In order to study the behaviour of the vessel in wind-storms, ingenious methods are used to reproduce actual conditions in miniature. A model of the ship, complete with fittings, complete with superstructure, funnel, funnels, boats, etc., is placed inside a tunnel built of plywood and having an observation window of plate-glass extending along the front of the tunnel. Both ends of the tunnel are open and to one end is attached a large suction fan capable of drawing air through the tunnel over a wide range of air speed. At the other end of the tunnel is fixed a large sheet metal bell-mouth and grid for steady and equalizing the velocity over the area of the tunnel.

Two smaller fans are placed in the back of the tunnel. One is connected to a small box containing sal-ammoniac crystals, and thence through trunks to the funnels of the model. Heat applied to the sal-ammoniac drives off white fumes or smoke. The blast from the fan carries this smoke up and out through the funnels. The speed of this fan can be varied to represent the proportionate speeds of the funnel gases as in the ship. The other fan is connected to all the ventilators by an intricate manifold trunk and draws air down through all the ventilators, again reproducing actual ship conditions.

When all the funs are in operation the main fan, located in the superstructure, is turned on, the air then follows the path of the induced air currents, adjacent to the funnels, the ventilators draw down their supply of air. Thus in miniature, can be studied the behaviour of the smoke under any number of combinations of wind speeds, funnel gas speeds, ventilation speeds, with various types and proportions of funnels. By experimenting with these combinations, and by a process of elimination, designs arrive at the type of funnel or set of funnels which will result in the least possible contamination of decks and ventilation on the new giant Cunarder.

It may not be proper to precede the father of your best girl downstairs but sometimes it is policy.

B.C. Lumber Industry

Large Orders From Australia and Britain Mark Beginning Of New Era

British Columbia's lumber industry, backbone of its whole business life, started to swing back towards prosperity recently with the placing of orders for 4,000,000 feet of timber for Australia and 1,500,000 railway crossing timbers for England.

In announcing receipt of these orders by British Columbia mills, Hon. N. S. Lougheed, minister of lands, declared it was the best business news British Columbia had heard since the start of the industrial depression.

"The lumber industry, as it well may be, is jubilant," he said, "for it is believed, marks the swing of the pendulum upwards. And I can say without going further, at this time that it will probably be the forerunner of other large orders. It looks as though the lumber business had reached bottom again in a way which seemed impossible a short time ago. This same situation occurred in 1916, when a big order for lumber from England started the wheels to turn in our mills once more."

Comparing Present With Past

World Changes Many Of Its Beliefs During Progress Of Years

News from Lisbon of sharp earthquake shocks naturally recalls the great Lisbon earthquake of 1755, one of the greatest seismic disasters in history.

But to those who like to compare the present with the past to the present's advantage, it will also recall the prevailing belief 176 years ago that the Lisbon earthquake was a visitation of God. There was some preaching in this country to similar effect when a great sweep-out of the Caribbean in 1902 was attributed to the Devil.

But even intellectuals of 1755 like Voltaire were inclined to see God's hand in the earthquake and tidal wave that destroyed 40,000 lives in the Portuguese capital.

The world changes many of its beliefs in a century and three-quarters. If we like to consider twentieth century knowledge similar patronizingly at eighteenth century ignorance, what will be the attitude of the future of 175 years to the present whose theories as to the causes of earthquake are still as vague as superstitions themselves.

People Should Use Eggs

One Of Most Valuable Foods and Priests Low

People who have families to feed and who must count the cost of every thing they buy are foolish if they buy eggs at full price and add extra charges to them.

Wind comes from Toronto, however, that people are not buying as many eggs as when they were double or triple the price. An egg, so long as it is fresh, is just as good at a cent as one at five cents.

People who are not thrifty enough to take advantage of the present low prices are not good managers. Butter, milk and eggs, the three most valuable foods obtainable are now procurable at lower prices than for years.

It is strange how a man will chase a girl until she chases him.

Vegetable Cannery

A vegetable cannery, which it is reported, will be the largest in the British Empire, is to be established in Essex County, Ontario, at a cost estimated at $1,500,000. The district in which this new cannery is to be built is one of the most productive in North America.

Canada's national parks are from year to year becoming greater factors in the rise of the Dominion's tourist industry. The attraction and entertainment of the thousands of visitors who are annually taking to the roads and trails of this continent is rapidly becoming in Canada an industry of national importance. Areas of great natural beauty are being more and more sought and the army of vacationists upon whom the great outdoors has cast its beneficent spell continues to grow.

The far-reaching importance of national parks in increasing the flow of tourists to the Dominion is shown by the growing numbers who annually visit these great scenic playgrounds. Last year half a million people flocked by rail, motor, and boat to the parks. Both those in the West and those in the East were well patronized, the total being 541,350 visitors. Banff Park attracted the greatest number, 188,413 visiting the famous Alberta resort. Jasper Park drew 13,783 persons; Kootenay Park, 43,125; Waterton Lakes Park, 44,827; Buffalo Park, 12,537; Elk Island Park, 20,138; and Glacier, Revelstoke, and Yoho Parks combined had a total of about 20,000 visitors.

Yoho, Alberta, National Park, Saskatchewan's unit in the Parks' system, recorded a considerable increase in the number of visitors last year, the 1930 total reaching 17,164, or 7,000 more than the previous year. In the first year of its existence, Riding Mountain National Park in Manitoba entertained 15,028 persons.

In the East, national parks and recreational areas also attracted increasing numbers. Point Pelee Park, the most southerly point in Canada, and the St. Lawrence Islands Parks, both in Ontario, reported higher totals. Point Pelee, with 104,000 visitors last season, the Islands Parks drew 15,000. The historic parks, Fort Anne in Nova Scotia, and Fort Beausejour in New Brunswick, had 18,000 and 12,000 visitors respectively. Indications for the present season point to another large influx of visitors to the national parks and surrounding areas. Numerous requests for information are being received in the Department of the Interior. Of special interest is the fact that the 1931 annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada will be held in Prospector's Valley in the shadow of the Ten Peaks in Banff Park.

Alberta Creameries

Cream Receipts In Alberta Are Reported On The Up-Grade

Cream receipts in Alberta creameries continue on the up-grade with 1,642,057 pounds of butterfat recorded for the five-week period ending May 2nd, an increase of 8.7 per cent over April last year, according to Dr. C. P. Marker, dairy commissioner. The central section of the province made a gain of 9.2 per cent, for 1931 during the first 18 weeks. The average test in 1931 was 32.4, a gain over the 31.3 mark of a year ago. The much volume of cream has shown better quality as 62.4 per cent, graded "special." Total cream receipts in 1931 reached 4,505,229 pounds of butterfat.

Private hoarding of funds has been condemned by the Portuguese government.

THINGS WE SHOULD KNOW

(By R.M. McCool, M.L.A.)

Alberta has control of her own natural resources. These resources include approximately one hundred million acres of unsettled land, most of which is unsurveyed. Since last March applications for free homesteads have not been accepted by the government.

Starting July 2nd homesteads will again be available, but under new regulations. The government will mark out certain areas for entry and will refuse entries outside of these areas. From time to time new areas will be opened but not until the former ones are all taken up. This is done to prevent settlement spreading out as it has in the past, making it almost impossible to provide schools, road and other facilities.

Any person male or female, applying for a homestead must be seventeen years of age, must be a resident of Alberta for three years previous, must be a British subject or declare his intention of becoming one, which he must fulfill before obtaining patent. Land may be held for one year for an applicant who is sixteen years of age, providing he resides with a member of his immediate family or a farm within nine miles on a direct line from the land so held. Squatters rights shall not be allowed except in special cases where bona fide settlers were on the land prior to November 1st, 1930.

Regulations for the sale of land shall be made by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. All sales shall be by auction to an open price per acre and a specified period of advertisement. Unless approved by the Minister no person can buy more than one section. Providing land is not sold at time of auction the Minister has the right to sell by private sale.

WARNING ISSUED RE CUTWORMS

Already the cutworm has done considerable damage in large areas in Saskatchewan and in Alberta. If the farmers had taken the warning a year ago of guarding against this pest to this year's crop, no doubt consider able saving of wheat would have been effected. The damage to the 1932 crop will depend absolutely and solely upon the way fields are handled.

The moth of the cutworm flies across the fields and lays its eggs starting in the first few days of August, reaching its maximum flight about the 20th, and continuing to fly and lay its eggs until about the middle of September. This moth will avoid all the land that has had even a very slight crust formed upon it by rainfall, but will lay its eggs upon Any soil where this crust has been broken, however slightly. To avoid cutworm damage on a field, therefore, it is necessary that on summer-fallow fields all the work should stop by the first of August or a few days afterwards. Then a very slight rain will form a crust on these fields, which will render them immune the following year from cutworm damage. It is important that no horses or stock or implements or wagons shall be allowed to cross any summer-fallow prepared in this fashion because wherever the crust is broken the moth will lay its eggs. On fields in a crop, where harvesting operations are conducted before September 1st, then damage the following year is almost certain to be experienced unless these fields are summer-fallow.

H. L. Seaman, Dominion Entomologist, stationed at Lethbridge Laboratory, without hesitation states that it is better to allow weeds to grow in the summer-fallow after August 1st in these affected areas, rather than to disturb the crust of the soil and thus invite cutworm damage.

The World's Grain Exhibition and Conference offers Canadian farmers an opportunity to share in cash prizes amounting to $210,750.00. Comprised in 5 categories, these are open to the whole world, are 1,701 cash prizes. A few of the major awards follow:

pounds of oats.

$1,500 for 40 pounds of barley; 50 pounds of rye.

$800 for 30 pounds of corn; 30 pounds of flax.

$300 for 30 pounds of peas; 30 pounds of clover.

With this splendid opportunity before them, Canadian farmers should keep a watchful eye on their growing crops. They should mark for special attention the grain and seed samples. It should be noted that it should be understood that all seed and grain samples, if they are not already selected, will have to be found in crops of this year. All exhibits must be received by the exhibition authorities on or before March 1, 1932.

Crop Prospects

Looking Better.

Rainfall in the past week has improved the outlook for wheat yields in the Canadian West with the exception of parts where the drought-striken crops were too far gone to benefit by the moisture, stated the weekly crop report of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, issued Friday night. Manitoba prospects are for a crop of 50 to 70 per cent. of normal while Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta expect average yields.

Southern and Central Saskatchewan, the report stated, had conditions somewhat brightened by rain but there are large sections where the crops are well out beyond the point of production, still beyond seed and feed. The rain aided only late sown wheat and coarse grains in these areas but the Northern part reported moisture conditions satisfactory and average yields on the horizon. Slightly better than average yields are predicted for some parts of Northern Alberta where heavy rains fell in the past seven days.

Picnics at the O.S.A.

Recent copious rains have transformed the appearance of the School grounds. Until June 10th the lawns retained that brown appearance that characterized them since last August. Even the dandelions lacked their usual luxuriance, although they did not fail to bloom and ripen some seed.

But now everything is changed. Five inches of rain in ten days in June can work miracles. The grass is lush and green, the perennial flowers have taken a new interest in life and are blooming profusely even the meadow birds seem to sing a more hearty song. The reserve of moisture now established should maintain everything in growing condition for weeks to come.

As a place for picnics the grounds have been popular for many years and we hope forward again to using them utilized for this purpose by organizations of farmers and others. Those who come from farms can get some ideas on planting around the farmstead and can inspect the stock and experimental plots to their own profit. But if they wish they may simply loaf in the shade and go home refreshed. For those who come from a distance arrangements will be gladly made to furnish coffee and hot water to help out the picnic lunch. This can only be done when notice is given, but a telephone call is all that is necessary.

A CHALLENGE

Oh listen, listen ladies gay,
Attend to your own affairs I say,
Clean out the house, attend the farm
And you'll have no time to do neighbor John harm.

Dame Van Winkle had a long tongue they say,

Which grew keener with use as she allowed it sway,
So take it between your teeth and bite
When you feel inclined neighbor John to backbite.

Some men indulge in this art galore
And peddle home news items by the score

About neighbor John's wife, what she said, where she'd been
And these items are talked of till they are tales very keen.

The slogan we hear of the W.C.T.U. is "Down With the Drink, Save Manhood Anew."

A slogan much needed in this world to day

Is "Stop Gossiping, Stop Listening to Idle Talk Right Away."

When this is the attitude all folks will take

Our community with rare good friendship will shake.

The teacher, the preacher, neighbor John and his wife

Will no longer be targets for community strife.

Instead the topic of conversation will be Something worth listening to and you will see

Life will be easier for those who find it hard to walk

When we all try to stamp out destructive talk.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

As a result of a recent change in its postal service, Poland now has a post office for every 6,300 inhabitants.

The Central Bank of Shanghai recently shipped gold bars to the value of $5,100,000 to Vancouver on the "Empress of Asia."

The Irish Free State Government rejected a proposal for establishment of a gambling casino at Bray, a seaside resort in County Wicklow.

Thirty-one French war veterans recently spent four days in London as guests of the British Legion, which has made them honorary members for their services in connection with Legion pilgrimages.

The international radio conference in Copenhagen, Denmark, at which about 40 nations were represented, ended June 9. A number of proposals were drafted for submission to the world congress, which is slated to be held in Madrid in 1932.

Delegates in Toronto to the World's Women's Christian Temperance Union Convention will carry home with them to the four corners of the earth unique souvenirs in the shape of small phials of pure, full of hard wheat from Alberta.

Economic indignation was put forth as one of the "main contributing causes of the business ailments" affecting the United States in the "world wide epidemic of trade depression" by Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania.

Charles Lindley Wood, second Viscount Halifax, celebrated his 92nd birthday anniversary recently. He is probably the proudest father in Great Britain, for his only son is Lord Irwin, who recently retired from the high post of viceroy of India.

In behalf of enthusiasts of Charles Dickens in Toronto and Boston, wreaths were laid on the novelist's grave in Westminster Abbey, June 9, to commemorate the 61st anniversary of his death. The wreaths were composed of scarlet geraniums, Dickens' favorite flower.

Makes Paving Blocks By Secret Process

Omaha Man Gets Remarkable Results By Using Any Crushable Material

Paving blocks from egg shells, marble monuments from sandstuck and "concrete" fence posts from ground-up cornstarch, are possible with a process being exploited in Omaha. The same process will make "stone" slabs out of coffee grounds, building stones out of wood ash, cornstarch and minerals out of ordinary trash and "solid" stone out of anything that can be ground into small bits.

Elwood Gossert is the discoverer of the process and he is keeping the method all to himself. It is not a patented or copyright system. It's simply a secret method and Mr. Gossert is not making public this secret.

Investigators are permitted to stand by and watch the process in operation, but when the work is completed and a marble bust of George Washington is made out of a peck or two of pulverized walnut shells, the watchers do not know any more than they did at first.

Ordinary wheat straw is one of Mr. Gossert's favorite materials for paving blocks, although the discoverer of the process will use just about anything that can be crushed or pulverized into small bits.

After grinding up the straw, egg shells, cornstarch, or whatever is to be used, Mr. Gossert mixes this with what he calls his "bonding agency." This "bonding agency" is the material that is secret. Mr. Gossert will readily tell you what he is using, except he will not tell you just what this "bonding agency" really is. He explains that this "agency" is composed of seven salts, all found in sea water. He has this in a barrel, a sort of shiny sea-green mixture. After this is added to the mixture when it is wet and any desired effect can be produced, so far as coloring is concerned, the mixture is then dried.

"Nature keeps her human orchard healthy," Mr. Gossert is said, "and with her pruning hook." This "harsh and repugnant" assertion was wrong from him, he said, even though the future of his own dreams is a time of everlasting peace.

The average man is like a match. If he gets lit up, he loses his head.

Horrors Of War

Honorable Arthur Henderson Depicts Calamity That Next Conflict Would Endall

Horrors of the next war were outlined in London, England, by Hon. Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, as he delivered the Duxbury memorial lecture on "Conserving World Peace."

"What a chapter of horrors can be written of the conditions that must prevail if a war involving the nations should again break out!" Mr. Henderson said. "Armies and navies would be powerless to protect the civilian populations from the new form of attack from the air which will make previous aerial warfare pale into insignificance."

"It will be the triumph of death in its most hideous and agonizing forms which science has made possible to inflict upon non-combatants."

In the electric lighting industry the plant comes before the bulb, but in gardening the bulb comes before the plant.

Vital Statistics

Eighth Annual Report Covering the Year 1928 Has Just Been Issued

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has just issued the eighth annual report of vital statistics covering the year 1928. Although the more important figures for that year were given out in 1929 in preliminary form, the present volume, which contains the analysis for permanent record, has many features of great interest.

The report contains tables classifying the parents of children born during the year, under such headings as age, racial origin and birthplace. Tables of decedents are presented under similar headings, and special attention is given to treatment of causes of death according to age, nativity and conjugal condition, while the caption of the decedent is tabulated for certain causes. Statistics are also given according to the ages, birthplaces and religions of the contracting parties. Statistics of births and marriages are also given in detail by localities. The report contains special tables for the Indian population and for the Yukon and the North West Territories.

A very full analytical introduction is included in the volume.

Great Lakes' Level Exceptionally Low

Will Hamper Fall Grain Movement Unless Rains Excessive

Movement of the grain crop down the Great Lakes will be considerably hampered next fall unless this summer sees an excessive rainfall throughout Ontario, Manitoba and middle western United States.

Such is the conclusion to which hydrographers experts in the Department of Marine at Ottawa are irresistibly driven following a check-up of the latest figures on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River.

Figures gathered by the department show that these levels are far below the average for this time of year.

Believes Wars Are Inevitable

British Scientist Says Mother Nature Uses Wars For Pruning Hook

Man's dream of a world without war can never come true, Sir Arthur Keith, the British scientist, said in an address at Aberdeen University where he is the rector.

"Nature keeps her human orchard healthy," he said, "and with her pruning hook."

That "harsh and repugnant" assertion was wrong from him, he said, even though the future of his own dreams is a time of everlasting peace.

The Adventures of CAPTAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTIE

WHAT CAME BEFORE: As Captain Jimmy and his new found friend Jed arrived in the Orient, they had to get into an old railway locomotive. Jed tells how his brother had been captured by outlaws, and of his search.

As Jed told me the story, I saw his brother had suddenly thought of the engine, and had carried him away into the hills in revenge. It suddenly occurred to me how his brother had been captured by outlaws, and of his search.

We were so interested in our plan for getting back to the coast, that we failed to notice another mother train had come along, and until its whistle began to make a mournful wailing, we would soon be between the two railway locomotives.

Instead of running away, we decided to make a daring crossing of freight cars, and as the engine was moving along, we would jump the train between the two locomotives.

Too late! There was an ear-splitting roar, and the engine had kicked the locomotive right out from under us. We were all thrown to the ground, and as we tried to get up, I found myself held to the rails.

We saw a wreck indeed.

The engine had peeled into the rear of the train, and the front of the train was a mass of splinters, the next three cars had jumped the track, and now lay crossing the road, and the engine was crossing a great many trees.

It was a terrible sight, but if a certain had just passed by.

Balls were torn up, and will receive his signal photo free.

the scattered around. The crew had buckled up and were taking no further notice of us.

"I guess we had better get out of here before they catch us," said Jed, chuckling at Jed Stone. "First thing you'll know some one or other will want their photo."

It seemed best to leave the freight cars and get out, so we unhooked the engine, climbed into the cab, and started the engine, driving along for a few miles in the direction of Jed Stone.

"How about getting the telegraph wires?"

It was enough, in a few minutes the crew might decide to return and telegraph to the Chinese to capture us.

While a party of Chinese troops waiting for us, asking where we found the engine, we had to get out and cut the wires.

Many miles from Shanghai. Sometime we must get to our airplane and get away. We had to get out of the engine, and much less chance of rescuing Jed Stone.

I pushed the old engine, as fast as I

I could. The country was flat and uninteresting.

Most of the time had been cut away and the ground almost bare of vegetation.

Mile after mile we drove on.

After a time we began to see an occasional soldier walking along the tracks. Then a large wood began to appear on the left, stretching away to the horizon.

Will Serve Large Area Of Three Million Acres In Southern Saskatchewan

The new experimental farm of the Dominion Government located two miles south of Regina and a mile east of No. 6 Highway, which recently opened, will serve the Regina-Moose Jaw-Weyburn area which comprises some 3,000,000 acres of heavy clay soil. Soil drilling will be one of the problems to be investigated at the farm, also weed control, comparisons of different methods of summer-fallow land for seeding, preparing stable land for crop, the economic value of forage crops and their relation to the general problems and intensive studies of weeds prevalent in this area.

Claim 'Plane Speed Record Exceeded

Trial Flights Of Schneider Cup Pilots Were Speedy

The world's airplane speed record of 357 miles an hour, made by Squadron Leader August H. Oberleir in 1929, was reported to have been broken by several planes by pilots in training for the Schneider Cup races.

While the figures have not been given out, it was understood pilots exceeded 360 miles an hour while driving racing seaplanes in trial flights.

Army Of School Teachers

There were 9,640 students training as teachers in the 46 normal schools and in 12 of the universities in Canada in 1930. About 70,000 men and women are annually employed as teachers in the schools of Canada.

CHAPTER XX.

Angela was in her element. To be the only beautiful woman aboard a yacht sailing amid fairy isles — to have the daily companionship of a man who, when her husband had implied, was adamant to her charms, and to realize that he was keenly aware of them — to have even as antiquated a male as Colonel Nowell eager for her favors, was the breath of life to her. In no way could Amy Myer be regarded as a rival. She was not arrogant, but was modest, and it was evident that she cared not a whit of her fingers for the admiration of either Nick or the Colonel.

Myer himself was on his good behaviour, and Angela was too absorbed in her conquest of Nick to feel chagrined at the fact that not once had her host maneuvered to be alone with her. Possibly the presence of his small daughter, to whom he was unquestionably devoted, made a difference. Indeed, little Marjorie was the only rival whom Angela feared, for to Nick the child was a source of unfailing entertainment. Sometimes for entire evenings they would sit on deck playing some ridiculous game, while Marjorie temporarily deserted, invariably losing with grace, and would wonder why the Myers should take a child on a trip of this sort.

Nick grew to like Mrs. Myer. Her blase manner which had repelled him last summer at Bakersville seemed to drop away on shipboard. At little Marjorie's entreaty she sometimes joined in their games; and with her child, at least, she was unaffected.

And Amy Myer liked Nick. It was on a night when he and Angela had entranced them all by singing together in the quiet, tropic starlight, that, in the privacy of their own state-room, she confided that liking to her husband.

"He's a nice fellow, Nick Hastings. It makes me tired to see Angela set her cap for him. She doesn't make much headway; but I tell you what, George Myer, if I had her succeed me as I've watched her succeed with others, we'd have the nearest port."

"Oh, I guess Hastings sees through all right. He's not in the infant class," answered Myer indifferently.

She said, her back to him: "And how about yourself, last summer on the terrace at Bakersville?"

Nick was bent low over a refractory shoe-lace. When he lifted his face it had acquired a brick-red color that was not the result of tropic sun. "What do you mean?"

Praises Famous Vegetable Pills For Indigestion

"Having been troubled with Indigestion and Sick Headaches for several months, I have found relief in taking your famous Pills. After the first dose I was made aware of their very real tonic value." — Miss C. C. C.

"I have had Liver Pills are no ordinary laxative. They are all vegetable and have a very definite, valuable tonic action upon the Liver . . . exactly what you say. I have had them for Acidosis, Bilelessness, Headaches, Poor Complexion, etc. All druggists, 25c & 75c red pills."

He regretted the words almost in-

Amy removed a last hairpin, and shook out the wonderful coils of soft, dark hair which was her only beauty. "So you thought I didn't know, my dear? I fear you were careless. As it happened, I was on the other side of that lilac bush; and if I'm not mistaken that streak of a maid was in the dining room, directly behind you. Next time——"

"You know jolly well that there won't be a next time," he said gruffly. "There wouldn't have been—that, if it hadn't been for the moon, and a dame pretty woman that I saw."

"You shall be pretty," admitted Amy.

She drew a quick sigh as her eyes met her own image in the mirror. Myer heard it, and felt, amid disgust at his own weakness, a sudden, long-dormant protective tenderness for his wife. He arose, limping toward her on one shoe, and lifted a strand of her beautiful hair.

"Can she beat that?"

"But—but it's all I have, George."

"I'm damned if it is! Do you think for a minute——"

She turned, smiling up at him, her eyes bright.

"No, I don't; but I didn't like her making a fool of you, my dear. That's something no woman who loves a man would do. I like her, and she did make a fool of you, George—you can't deny it. It was to prove to myself that my faith in you was unshaken, that I asked her to come with us on this cruise. But I don't like her playing with Nick Hastings. He's got a wife of his own."

Well he hasn't forgotten her—yet; and it's my opinion that he enjoys the kid dare sight more than she enjoys an "Angel."

He still held the strand of her hair, a bit awkwardly.

"Amy," he hesitated, "I—I'm sorry about last summer, I don't know what got into me, but——"

"I do," said Amy, "and because I understand, I forgive you; but just look out that it doesn't happen again, George."

"I can promise it won't. I've never tried to get you, have I?"

"No. Perhaps that's my reason for trusting you."

She gently loosened the fingers that held her hair, and began brushing it with sure, swift strokes. Her husband watched her a moment silently; then sat down and unlaced his other shoe. No more words passed between them; but later when he kissed her goodnight, he told himself that he was a miserable cur, and that his wife was the most wonderful woman in the world, which, after all, is a healthful state of mind for a married man.

These were enchanted days to Nick, though at times he worried at the thought that he was accepting a girl friend from mere acquaintances. He said as many one moment when he and Amy Myer were playing at shut-shut with Marjorie, whom Nick had taught to be fairly skillful.

Amy smiled. "My friend, you're worth your weight in gold just as a nursemaid! I've never taken Marjorie on a cruise and had so much leisure for myself. The child adores you. If there's any obligation it's on our side."

Angela, who had been watching the game, gave vent to one of her bored shrugs. "Isn't that a unique way to regard one's guest—as a nursemaid?" she queried languidly.

Nick laughed; but Amy replied unsmiling: "Better a nursemaid than a lady's man, I think, or—a tame tame."

Their eyes clashed for a moment; then Angela looked away. It was like a sudden unsheathing of swords, which Nick, happily unconscious, did not see. He laughed as he said: "I don't mind in the least being regarded as nursemaid, Angela. Gay says I'm a curker! I can do most anything for the lids that can, from washing wash to telling bedtime stories."

Her lip curled. For the moment she was angry with him.

"I see. You are then, a sort of mother's-helper?"

The words were spiteful. Amy snorted, and thought: "A few more spacers of that kind, and my lady will give herself away." Nick, however, was still good-natured, as he answered.

"That's not a bad shot, Angela; but it doesn't hurt. I'm ashamed not to be something of a 'mother's-helper' when I've got two kids and no nursemaid to look after 'em. And I wouldn't miss the fun of it, either. Say! your husband's just finding it out! He has great times with his small protege!"

He regretted the words almost instuntry. His regret deepened when he saw that Angella had flushed; but she replied evenly: "Yes, Jim has been devoting himself to—Bakersville. Are you so blind as to imagine that Martha is the attraction?"

She met his puzzled eyes with a mocking glance that baffled him. Amy Myer, watching intently, felt suddenly that there was some horrid meaning behind Angel's remark. It was a call to lunch that interrupted the question on Nick's lips, and caused Angela to give thanks to her lucky star. Her irritation had carried her beyond her depth. Next time he thought, she would be more careful.

It was a week later, one evening when little Marjorie had gone to bed, that Colonel Nowell quite innocently set off a bomb—at least, it was a bomb to Angel, and supplied food for thought to more than one of the party.

The day had been unusually oppressive, followed by an evening of moonlit beauty that seemed to filter through the hazy atmosphere. The sea was like glass; the air balmy, and fragrant with the scent of some wild shrub, wafted from an island that they were to explore next day. Angel's high good humor became Nick's; his cheer was close to home; was crooning a negro lullaby that fitted oddly the time and place. Her voice softly muted to suit her mother's voice, brought to each one some tender memory.

George Myer reached for his wife's hand and clasped it. Colonel Nowell's thoughts were thirty years away, visiting another moonlit night on the coast of Maine. Nick was close to home; was crooning a negro lullaby that fitted oddly the time and place. Her voice softly muted to suit her mother's voice, brought to each one some tender memory.

As the plane taxied up to the landing on arrival and the attendants had opened the door, the bees poured out and it was some time before they were led back by the queen bee to the hangar.

It was a record run, but, as Casanova says, "Never again."

Who broke the silence that followed, "Are any of you familiar with the state of Maine?"

"I am," said the unsmiling assent. No one seemed yet quite ready for conversation. As the moonlight fell across her hair, Amy withdrew her hand from her husband's clasp, and Nick, with an effort, brought himself back from Bakersville.

"Nothing to my mind is lovelier than the coast of Maine," the Colonel was saying. "Went there thirty years ago, and haven't missed a half a dozen summers since. Stayed most everywhere from Bar Harbor to York. It's all beautiful, but give me good old Painter's Neck for a steady diet."

Prehistoric Man

Discovery Made of SKULL of a Child
Believed to Be 36,000 Years Old

A discovery which is expected to prove of great importance in the field of prehistoric man was made by the young archaeologist, Theodore McCown at Wady Moughar, Attribut, says a dispatch from Jerusalem.

It is a skull's child of the Moustierian age of the same type as the "Galilee skull" found on the shore of the Sea of Galilee in 1925.

The present skull is estimated to be 30,000 years old.

Switzerland sent nearly 575,000 wrist watches to the United States last year.

Bees Give Pilot Lively Ride

Hive Broke While Being Transported
From Marseilles To Paris

Grazyna, one of the pilots of the Air Union Line, will be careful hereafter about who he takes for a ride, even if he loses his job as a result of it.

On his recent flight from Marseilles to Paris, a distance of 500 miles, he carried a consignment of bees, ten hives in all. As they were carefully stowed away in the baggage compartment of his plane, he never gave them a thought until some so-called airpockets brought them forcibly to mind. After one of the lurches of his plane had given him a good shake, he had to open a hole in the floor, and the bees, which had been quiet, suddenly began to swarm around him.

He quickly grabbed a handkerchief and the bees were soon quiet again. He then closed the hole and the plane taxied up to the landing on arrival and the attendants had opened the door, the bees poured out and it was some time before they were led back by the queen bee to the hangar.

The unfortunate pilot, however, outside of pressing close his goggles, tightening his ear flaps and clutching his head, did nothing but sit back and wait for the bees to leave him.

At Last! The Truth About

PIMPLES

Pimples, acne and blackheads are caused by a rundown, disordered system, by the presence of acids and toxins which make your skin look dirty. So if you want to rid yourself of that ugly, blemished complexion and to obtain beautiful, smooth and clear skin, you must eat foods like diamonds—super foods called Kruschen Salts.

Kruschen Salts are a perfect blend of the vital salts which nerves, glands, blood and body organs ought to receive from food if they're to work properly. In fact, it's simply impossible to assimilate these salts in these modern cooking!

Therefore take Kruschen Salts in a glass of water every morning before breakfast—this quickly gets back these precious minerals into your system and drives out harmful acids and toxins, assuring you enviable and glorious youthful beauty and health.

"And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."—Luke 2: 10, 11.

And clear today as long ago. The angel chorus echoes still. Above the clamor, human woe, "Good-will and peace, peace and good-will."

Through eighteen hundred stormy years, The dove notes ring and will not cease. And past all mists of mortal tears, The guiding star rebukes our fears; "Peace and good-will, good-will and peace."

— Susan Coolidge.

If we will really persevere in our endeavours and in our prayers, we may be sure that He who was on this day born into the world,—the Saviour of sinners,—and who grew up as a tender plant in a dry ground, will cause the dry ground of our hearts to become fruitful, and the seed of grace to spring up, first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear. — Peter Young.

In Quality Sells It—The fact that so many thousands of intelligent people continue to use Dr. Thomas' Electric Liniment speaks volumes for its honest efficiency. Since it was first introduced it has grown steadily in public favor, owing entirely to its manifold usefulness in relieving and healing skin diseases, as well as for cuts, burns, scalds, and various inflammatory pains; its record is beyond reproach.

"We have opened a big restaurant—without alcohol—on the campus of the University of Cologne, and you can find there several hundred of fraternity students sitting in the garden with a bottle of milk," said Dr. Kraus.

The Daily Double, a newly inaugurated betting pool based on the winners of second and fourth races, Wednesday made a new Canadian record when it paid $2,375 at the Calgary Stampede meet. Elmer and Wheel, paying $47.65 for $2 in the second, and Musketter, bringing $17.95 in the fourth, combined to net the high figure for the lone $2 "Double" ticket.

Fortune failed to smile too lavishly on J. Waterman, who marked the only winning selection, for he sold half his ticket to F. Franklin an acquaintance, for $28 and El Cenior Whirl galloped across in the second. The figure returned by

Didsbury Beat Calgary Dodgers.

Playing first class ball at Calgary, last Wednesday, Didsbury defeated Calgary Dodgers 6-4. The locals were in fine form and well deserved the win. Scotty Lee went the route and demonstrated real class as he only allowed two hits and fanned 14 of the Dodger slingers. Two Calgary runs were unearned, a very nice addition at first base being responsible for the two. Lee gave Calgary 1-2 lead in the 4th inning. In the last five innings, the Calgary didn't get another run. The locals got a 3-0 lead in the 5th, and got a 4-0 lead in the 6th. Both fanned with home runs.

A return game will be played at Didsbury in the near future and will be well worth seeing.

Didsbury - Louie and Woodlock, Dodgers - Crawford, Bullard and Howard.

Heavy batting by Three Hills and errors by the Didsbury boys are the feature of the game at Three Hills on Monday, when Three Hills thumped Didsbury to the tune of 11-4.

Didsbury used three pitchers, Boden, Lee and Woodlock, but none of the boys were able to stop the hitting streak of the home boys which started early in the game. Three Hills played a supply ball and held the Didsbury team down to 4 runs. McNab and Mills were the pitchers.

Fred Evans, who played for the last time with the local seniors made a good showing, handing out a good single and gathering in a pretty catch.

First Lady Legislator Passes.

One of Alberta's outstanding leaders in women's work was removed Friday when the death of Mrs. Louise C. McKinney occurred at her home in Claresholm, after a short illness. The late Mrs. McKinney had the distinction of being the first woman to take a seat in an Empire legislative assembly, being elected to represent the constituency of Claresholm in June 1917, and taking her seat at Edmonton some months prior to the entrance of Miss Roberta MacAdams, who was elected as an overseas member of the provincial assembly. Mrs. McKinney was president of the W.L.F., an organization in the 1910s which was a leading force for more than 25 years. She was one of the five Alberta women who appealed to the Privy Council for the right of women to a seat in the Senate of Canada, and she won Wednesday for exceeds the previous record for a "Daily Double" in Canada - $1,400 paid at Montreal's Blue Bonnets last month.
